

GEOGRAPHY

INTRODUCTORY READING AND RESOURCES

The following have been recommended by current undergraduate and post-graduate Geography students of the University of Oxford. Don't feel you have to read all of them – dip in to what catches your eye.

New Scientist and Scientific American magazines

www.sciencedaily.com

National Geographic magazine

Geographical magazine (produced by Royal Geographic Society)

Keeping up with innovations and research in Science and the Environment is recommended to prospective applicants. Magazines such as New Scientist and National Geographic can help, or set your home page to Science Daily!

Geography: A Very Short Introduction – John A. Matthews

Small is Beautiful: Economics as if People Mattered – E. F. Schumacher

Questioning Geography – Castree

The Revenge of Gaia – James Lovelock

Human Geography: An Essential Anthology – ed. Agnew, Livingstone and Rogers

Mapping: Ways of Representing the World – Dorling & Fairbairn

Territory: The Claiming of Space – David Storey

Hungry City – Carolyn Steel

The Economics of Climate Change – Nicholas Stern

Globilisation and its Discontents – J. Stiglitz